Report on Research of Randy Halprin's Underlying Offense

I. Fact Summary

On September 5, 1996, Randy Halprin was arrested for injury to a child. The following is a summary of the events that led to Halprin's arrest.

In the fall of 1996, Halprin was residing at 3000 Las Vegas Trail, Apt. 1-233, Ft. Worth, Texas. This apartment was rented by Todd and Ramie Plummer, and they lived there with their two children. They met Halprin at the Arlington Night Shelter and offered to allow him to live with them in exchange for occasionally babysitting their children. Shortly after Halprin moved in, they invited another person from the shelter, Charity Smith, to live with them. Smith moved in with her son, Jared Robert Smith, who was seventeen months old at that time.

On August 28, 1996, Smith took her son to Cook Children's Hospital because he had been limping for approximately two days. Upon examination the treating doctor, Dr. Fuller, immediately called in the Crimes Against Children Unit of the Ft. Worth Police Department. Patient advocate Don Tatlock was involved in the investigation, as was CPS caseworker Susan Waggoner. The police report (attached) indicates that Jared had two broken arms, two broken legs, a skull fracture, and damage to his left eye. The attached police report, unfortunately, provides little detail as to the course of the investigation. The complete file has been subpoenaed and is discussed further below.

A. Halprin's Account of Events

Halprin's report of the facts leaves many questions. First, he admits that he did push Jared one time, two days prior to Smith taking him to the hospital. Halprin described the events surrounding that incident. He said that was on acid when the Plummers and Smith told him they wanted to go out for the evening and expected him to babysit. Halprin says that he told them he could not babysit because he was on drugs, but that they insisted on going out and left him with the three children. Jared had an ear infection at that time, which made him particularly fussy. Halprin describes an evening of escalating frustration where he pushed Jared in the back, causing him to hit his face on the corner of a trunk. Halprin says he left Jared alone immediately after that and that Jared then calmed down and acted normally for the remainder of the evening until he went to bed. He reports that Jared was not limping or showing any difficulty using his arms.

As I mentioned, it was two days later that Smith took Jared to the hospital. It is difficult to imagine that Jared could have walked around and functioned normally, except for the limp, for two days if he had the injuries described above. Also, it is not clear who else may have been alone with Jared in between the evening Randy babysat and the night Smith took him to the hospital.

As for the events that led up to the arrest, Halprin's account makes little sense. He states that he was questioned on one occasion and signed a statement at that time. Halprin says that he was asked to return to the police station to re-sign the report because it contained an error as to the date. He says that he signed the second report without reading it, trusting the officers, and was then immediately placed under arrest. Halprin claims that the police altered the report to include statements he never made. The police report indicates that Halprin was interviewed initially along with all adult members of the household and that he signed a statement that he had no knowledge of Jared's injuries. The report then states that Smith and Halprin both agreed to polygraph examinations on September 4. The report of Det. Kamper states that she contacted polygraph administrator Robert Viana following the exams and was told that Halprin wanted to talk to her. Kamper stated that she went to Halprin at the polygraph office, read him his Miranda rights for a second time, and obtained a dictated statement in which he admitted to intentionally injuring Jared. The report goes on to say that Kamper prepared a probable cause warrant the following day and Halprin was arrested at his home without incident.

B. Detective Kamper's Version of Events

Detective Kamper is the only investigating officer still with the Ft. Worth Police Department. Other officers involved in the case were Sergeant Pendergraf, Officer McCoy, Officer Gray, and Sergeant Hortman. Kamper is now a sergeant in the Major Crimes Unit. I spoke with Sgt. Kamper in person briefly about the case, which shed some light on Halprin's version of events. First, Kamper denies Halprin's account of signing an amended statement. Her account is consistent with the police report: He gave one statement denying knowledge and one statement admitting guilt. When asked why Smith was not investigated further, Kamper simply replied, "Because Halprin confessed." The police report does indicate that Todd Plummer's statement to the police was that, although he had no knowledge of intentional injury to Jared, he frequently witnessed Smith "being rough with Jared, pulling him by the arms, and yelling at him a lot." The report indicates that Mrs. Plummer and Halprin made similar statements. Halprin also informed me that Smith had an older daughter she had lost parental rights to due to abuse. (The CPS subpoena discussed below requested all records relating to Charity Smith or Charity Collier and should reveal further facts about the other child.) Sgt. Kamper had no further comment on these facts.

C. Halprin's Plea

Halprin was represented by court-appointed attorney Mark Perez, formerly a Dallas County Assistant District Attorney. The Assistant District Attorney in the case was Lisa Amos. After sitting in jail for eight months, Halprin finally pled to Serious Bodily Injury to a Child with a Deadly Weapon. The deadly weapons in this case were his hands and feet. Halprin says that he agreed to this plea because his attorney told him that he would not get a better offer and would not win at trial because of his signed confession. Halprin agreed to a thirty-year sentence, which Perez told him he was able to have brought down from forty-five years. Reading Halprin's signed statements would be extremely beneficial here (presumably they will be in the DA's file that has been subpoenaed as discussed below). Otherwise, it is difficult to imagine that Halprin could not get a better offer considering that he has no prior felonies, Smith's history of child abuse, and the lack of evidence against him. A search (printouts attached) of Mark Perez and Lisa Amos showed no grievances filed against them.

D. Conclusions

It is not clear to me, from the evidence I have available at this time, that Halprin was responsible for all of the injuries inflicted upon Jared. Although he admits to pushing Jared, and this may have caused some injuries, there are too many suspicious uninvestigated facts surrounding Jared's injuries. First, Smith was never fully investigated. This is particularly significant in light of the removal of her older child—although CPS records may shed more light on the situation with the older child. Second, Jared was not taken to the hospital until forty-hours after the evening he spent with Halprin. It is difficult to imagine that he could have walked around and functioned fairly normally with two broken legs and two broken arms for that amount of time. There is no indication in the report of who else may have been alone with Jared in those two days.

Of course, Halprin may not have told me all of the facts surrounding the incident. This is certainly possible. This is one reason it is important to read what he actually admitted to in his signed statement. Sgt. Kamper told me that he admitted in detail how his actions caused the injuries to Jared. She made a point of saying that Halprin was not “brow-beaten” into his confession. However, even if Halprin did admit to causing all of Jared's injuries, I am not convinced he told the truth in that statement.

I would best characterize Halprin as a “pleaser.” He seems to want whoever he is communicating with at the time to like him and respect him. This may seem somewhat counterintuitive to admitting to injuring a child, but in Halprin's mind, I easily see that he may have believed he was taking the high road. In other words, he was accepting some degree of responsibility for his actions to impress Kamper without realizing the full impact of his statements. My assessment of Halprin as a pleaser comes from my conversation with him, as well as the reports of others in the class from this semester and last semester. I would guess that this personality trait developed from his physical abuse by his birth family, followed by the emotional abuse of his adoptive family. Obviously, Halprin needs a psychological evaluation to determine the effects of his childhood on his adult behavior. I believe such an evaluation would also provide insight into why he would sign a confession (if he did not cause all the injuries) and why he would subsequently agree to a plea that gave him thirty years.

II. Suggested Follow-Up

A. Locate Other Individuals Who Resided at 3000 Las Vegas Trail at the Time of the Incident

Charity Suzanne Smith's last-known address is that of the Plummer's apartment. She has been known to stay intermittently at the Arlington Night Shelter, and it is possible that its employees may have more recent information about her or her whereabouts. The Arlington Night Shelter is located at 325 W. Division in Arlington. Their phone number is 817-548-9885. In April 1998, Smith pled guilty and received three years' probation for forgery of a financial instrument in Tarrant County. Smith's probation officer should know where she resided as of April 2001. A printout of the disposition of this case is attached. It shows that she may be using the name Charity Collier. There are no telephone listings for Charity Smith or Charity Collier in Fort Worth.

Todd Loyd Plummer's last-known address is 3773 Timberglen, Dallas, Texas. This information comes from a printout of the disposition of a case in Dallas County.

In May 1998, Plummer was no-billed by a grand jury on an assault charge. Court records also show two previous addresses for Plummer in Carrollton. These records refer to two DWIs received by Plummer in 1995. Plummer pled guilty to the second DWI on April 18, 1997, and received twenty-four-months' probation. On January 5, 1998, his probation was amended to twelve months. Printouts of the dispositions of the three above-mentioned cases are attached. Plummer does not have a telephone listing in Ft. Worth, Dallas, or Carrollton.

Ramie Davis Plummer's last-known address is the Las Vegas Trail address in Ft. Worth. Obviously, if she is still married to Todd Plummer, her last-known address would be the same as his. Mrs. Plummer has no criminal record in the state of Texas.

B. Locate the Psychiatric Records of Mary Cannon and Halprin's Childhood

Therapist

Halprin's case was heard in Tarrant County Criminal District Court No. 1 before Judge Sharen Wilson. A complete copy of the court's case file is attached. This file indicates that Halprin received a court-ordered psychological evaluation by forensic psychiatrist Mary L. Cannon. Dr. Cannon's letter to the court is brief. After much searching I was finally able to locate Dr. Cannon, who retired last year to Eustace, Texas. She told me that she did not retain notes on her court-appointed evaluations because she included all the information in the court report. In fact, she said, she does not even keep a copy of the letter to the court because the court keeps one. She stated that she has no records whatsoever of Halprin. Dr. Cannon recalled little about him, including what the underlying offense was, except the she thought she remembered that she found him competent to stand trial, which she did. Dr. Mary Lou Cannon's current address is 12220 FM 316 in Eustace, TX 75124.

Unethical

Halprin reported that when he was about eleven years old, his parents sent him to a therapist in Arlington. He claims that they were concerned about his UFO fascination. Halprin does not recall the name of the therapist. It would be beneficial to find out who this therapist is and obtain his file on Halprin.

C. Obtain the Records of Cook's Children's Hospital, Child Protective Services, and the Tarrant County District Attorney's Office

The above records were all subpoenaed on April 22, 2002. Copies of the subpoenas are attached. Each subpoena directed that the records be delivered to the office of George Ashford. If these records are not received shortly, I recommend that hearings be set to order the production of these records. Each set of records is discussed more fully below.

The records from the Tarrant County District Attorney's office should contain a copy of the complete investigative file of the Ft. Worth Police Department. The litigation specialist in the civil division of the Tarrant County DA's office handles these requests. Her name is Angela Phillips, and her direct line is 817-884-2425. The copy of the police report indicates that both Smith and Halprin were given polygraph examinations, and that the results of both examinations were inconclusive. This is one piece of information I was seeking in these records. I was also seeking any photos that would have been taken by the investigating officers of the injuries to the child.

The medical reports of the child may also contain these photos, as well as x-rays and other information about the injuries he received. As I mentioned, these records have been subpoenaed. Ellen Hewitt is the Records Custodian of Cook's Children, and she indicated that it is their routine practice to file a motion to quash on all subpoenas requesting medical records.

The third subpoena was served to Child Protective Services of Tarrant County. It is my understanding that, based on the location of the incident, the CPS office located at 6743 Camp Bowie in Ft. Worth would have investigated this case. The supervisor in that office is Linda Hernandez. As you can see from the attached copy of the subpoena I served her, I requested all records relating to Jared Smith and Charity Smith Collier in hopes that CPS may have information about Smith's older child as well as any subsequent investigations involving Jared.

RANDY'S LIFE WITH THE HALPRINS

MEMORANDUM

TO: PROFESSOR REED

FROM: JESSICA AMAN & KRISTEN MISTRETTE

RE: RANDY HALPRIN CASE – RANDY’S LIFE WITH THE HALPRINS

DATE: MAY 9, 2002

We interviewed/investigated several people and contacts Randy had during the years that he lived with the Halprins. Among the people that we contacted were Randy, his brother Wesley, Mindi Sternblitz, Mr. & Mrs. Steve Sternblitz, Tom Dodson, and Police Chief Bill Waybourne. We attempted to contact Randy’s best friend at the time, Chad ____, who is now believed to live in Birmingham, but we were unsuccessful. We did contact people at Randy’s elementary school, junior high school, and the two summer camps he attended.

The information we found is below according to the source from which it was received. Some of the information we received was only gossip or opinions of the persons we spoke to, and that is so noted. Along with descriptions of the information we attained from the individuals we spoke to, we have also included a contact information sheet so these people may be contacted by you in the future.

As a side note, each time we spoke to a different person we were given a very different take on Randy’s situation. Our final conclusion is that there is something very unusual about the Halprin’s “deletion” of Randy from the family. While Randy is hesitant to blame his family for anything, other than being “great parents,” we feel that the Halprins did not want Randy from the time they adopted him, and this underlying feeling was the foundation to their behavior towards him, which caused severe negative effects on Randy.

WESLEY HALPRIN

Wesley gave the most valuable, and seemingly most honest information we received from anyone. Unlike Randy, Wesley is not trying to sugar-coat things or make sure that we, as students like, accept, or believe him. Wesley is presently in contact and has a good relationship with Randy, his biological mother, Annie Lester, and the Halprins. Very candidly Wesley stated that this puts him in a very awkward situation. Just recently, Randy found out that Wes is in contact with the Halprins. Wes did not want Randy to know because he knew it would hurt Randy.

Wes currently speaks to the Halprins at least once a week. And they are said to be very proud of him. He has recently gotten out of rehab, cleaned himself up, and gotten a job. So the obvious questions emerges, why have the Halprins forgiven Wes for his "bad acts" and crimes and yet refuse to even consider forgiving Randy? And unfortunately, Wes is just as baffled by that question as we are.

Wes said that he does not understand why the Halprins have been so adamant about cutting Randy out of the family. Wes confirmed that before Randy was even charged or convicted of the underlying offense (injury to child) the family made it clear that Randy was no longer part of the family. We prodded Wes for more information about this because at the time, Randy had only really been in minor trouble – nothing as serious as the drug offenses Wes has been in since that time.

Wes described the scene when Randy left or was kicked out the final time – after showing up at his parents' doorstep from Kentucky. He said as soon as Randy left, the Halprins made it uncomfortably clear to him that Randy was not part of the family anymore. They removed Randy from their will, and verbalized this to Wes. They even went as far as to remove every picture of Randy from the house. Wes said it was as if they wanted every potential reminder that he was ever in the house to be removed.

Wes seems very puzzled by this. Our theory, after speaking to the students who investigated Randy's life prior to adoption, is that the Halprins never wanted Randy as their son. And as soon as he "messed up," they were quick to cut him out of their family.

Wes did say that he knows the Halprins are very educated people – we got the impression he was insinuating uppity – or high class. He said they had very high expectations and standards of what their children should be and how they should perform in school. And Randy just was not a good enough student for their standards.

This enigma of the Halprins is even further confused by the fact that Wes admits that he was the "bad kid" of the family. He said that he was always the one that was getting into trouble. Up until the year or so before Randy was sent to Oneida, he was the more well-behaved one. In saying this, Wes expressed his confusion of why his parents have put up with his problems, and even now, have forgiven him and are proud that he has cleaned himself up.

We thought that because Wes is in contact with the Halprins and on good terms with them, he may be the best avenue to convincing the Halprins to help with Randy's trial, but this does not look very promising. Before we could even hint at this to Wes, he volunteered that every time he see or speaks to his parents he tried to talk to them about Randy. He said every time it's the exact same response. The Halprins get very angry that he brings it up. When he suggests that they should go see Randy, or help him in some way they always respond, – “No! Randy has done us wrong!” Wes says that he thought all parents should love their children unconditionally, but they don’t love Randy that way. And Wes has a very hard time reconciling that because he realizes that the Halprins do care for him more and differently than they care for Randy. Evidently Wes is one of the few people that knows where the Halprins are residing. We did not find out that information (no one would tell us).

Wes offered that his parents did try with Randy, but they didn’t do the right things. And when he “failed” in their eyes – they essentially quit, or gave up on him. The worst thing that the Halprins could have ever done was send Randy to Oneida. Wes said that Randy was not really bad when they sent him there. And Oneida was just a bad place.

ONEIDA

Randy hadn’t used drugs until he got to Oneida. And Wes explained that Oneida was basically a lot like prison or jail where novice criminals learn how to become better criminals. Wes said that drugs were everywhere at Oneida. There was even designated smoking areas at all the student dorms, including the dorms for the younger children – pre-teens. Smoking pot, apparently, was almost just as accepted as smoking cigarettes – which was outwardly condoned by the school.

We inquired about what was the impetus for Randy being sent to Oneida. Wes told us a story about the first time he remembers the Halprins bringing it up in the house. Randy was mowing grass and doing yard work in the Halprin yard. Wes and a friend, Chris Happel, were next door, agitating Randy by throwing firecrackers at him over the fence. (We did not inquire or look for the Happels, but this may prove to be a contact that is useful. Randy got upset, and concocted some sort of little “gas bomb.” Wes said he filled something with gasoline, threw it over the fence at he and his friend and told Wes to light it. Wes then went and told his parents on Randy. A heated argument took place in the home, and Wes said that was the first time he remembers his parents mentioning or threatening Randy with Oneida.

We asked then, why was Wes sent to Oneida. And surprisingly Wes replied, that he asked to go. Wes and Randy are very close, and evidently Wes was miserable at the Halprin house without Randy. Wes said he was getting into some trouble – but really it was no more than before – it was just that Randy was gone so all his parents’ attention could be focused on him. So the decision for Wes to go to Oneida was somewhat mutual between he and the Halprins.

Wes had no personal knowledge of Randy feeling uncomfortable at Oneida (Baptist school) because he was Jewish. However, Wes did say that that, “made sense” because they (Oneida) “shoved religion down their throats.” Wes considered himself a Christian, and it was still overwhelming to him. They were forced to go to chapel once every day, and on Sundays they had to attend services twice. If they did not comply with these requirements they were punished.

YMCA CAMP CARTER

We asked Wes about Randy’s attendance at YMCA Camp Carter in Fort Worth. Randy thought he attended that camp sometime around 1992/93. He also thought he received an award for being an “outstanding camper.” Ironically, Wes worked at Camp Carter about four years ago. He thinks that Randy was awarded the “Broken Arrow Award,” which is given to the outstanding camper – out of about 150 kids.

We contacted Camp Carter, and the young man answering the phones was not very helpful. Wes volunteered to make some phone calls to people that would have been counselors when Randy was in attendance. He mentioned the name Brad Montgomery as a person who would remember Randy. He now works at other YMCA facility, Camp Grady Spruce in Garland. That should be followed-up on. Wes seemed very happy to help with that information.

MINDI STERNBLITZ

Mindi was a friend of Randy's before he went away to Oneida. They were acquainted because their families were friends. The Sternblitz family was very involved in the Jewish community.

Mindi and Randy lost touch after he was expelled from Oneida. They were in contact – minimally – for a little while via mail while Randy was at Oneida. Mindi is a very kind-hearted person that had nothing but great things to say about Randy. She cares for him very much, and is very willing to voluntarily testify for mitigation purposes.

Mindi and Randy were re-united when Randy was working at Six Flags (believe in summer of 1996). Mindi saw Randy and they were happy to be in touch again. At that time, we think Randy was living at a Homeless Shelter, and Mindi offered Randy to come stay at her parents' house for a few days, which he did. Randy stayed there only a few days, and shortly thereafter, Mindi went away for her freshman year of college.

Mindi had a hard time eliciting information without us asking her specific questions. However, she was and is very willing to help – so if there is any information she may have that you think would help – you should contact her.

Mindi contacted her parents and convinced them to voluntarily speak with us.

The Sternblitz Family will likely be very helpful to Randy's mitigation. We were apprehensive at first, thinking they may not respond well to our inquiries, but they were very friendly and receptive.

We actually only spoke with Mrs. Sternblitz, but she spoke about her husband as well. Steve Sternblitz taught Randy Hebrew lessons, in preparation for his Bar Mitzvah. Many people, including the Sternblitz family, were very proud of Randy's choice to adopt Judaism and follow through with the Bar Mitzvah. Randy picked up Hebrew well, and seemed to really be excited about learning it. She said Randy did a "beautiful job" at the ceremony. We asked if there was a videotape of the ceremony at the temple, and there isn't. She thinks the Halprins may have taped it, though.

Mrs. Sternblitz gave us the impression that Mr. Halprin was not a real devout Jew, (he was Jewish & wife was Catholic), but when he did occasionally come to Temple, he would bring Randy. The Halprins allowed their children to choose their own faith. Randy was the only child to adopt Judaism. (We hypothesize this is yet another way Randy was trying to gain approval from his parents - in particular his father.)

The Sternblitz family was friends with the Halprins. In fact, Mrs. Sternblitz said that initially when the Halprins "moved away," in light of Randy's escape, the Halprins gave the Sternblitz's their contact information. However, the information either has changed or was incorrect. Mrs. Sternblitz has tried to use the phone number and the address they were given, and neither are accurate.

Mrs. Sternblitz said that she "works with troubled children." She really had, and still has a soft-spot for Randy. She said that she always thought he just had a learning disability or something of that nature. She spoke of how all children are different, and some don't fit well in to mainstream education. She didn't explicitly say it, but she strongly implied that she thought sending Randy to Oneida was an awful decision. She kept saying that he was a "good kid." He just had some bad luck and made some imprudent decisions.

Mrs. Sternblitz described Randy as a poor student, and then she explained that often times kids who can't cope with school or the rest of the world turn to other means. She said that the Halprins were "very disappointed" that he was not a better student. Evidently they (the Halprins) are both very astute, and were not able to cope with a child who was not similar to them in this respect.

Mrs. Sternblitz communicated with Randy after he went off to Oneida. She said Randy expressed how unhappy and uncomfortable he was there because he was not a Christian. This can be interpreted two ways. Perhaps Randy really was uncomfortable because of his faith – or perhaps he was just saying what he thought a devout Jewish woman would want to hear. Nonetheless, Mrs. Sternblitz started sending Randy cards on religious holidays because no one else at Oneida (or anyone in general) seemed to acknowledge his faith. She said she was like his surrogate Jewish Mother.

Mrs. Sternblitz seemed hesitant to say anything negative about the Halprins, but I could sense that she is bothered by their choices and behavior towards Randy. She concurs with Wes that sending Randy to Oneida was probably the worst thing they could have done. It only caused Randy more problems.

Mrs. Sternblitz also confided that when Randy stayed at their home for a few days (approx. summer 1996) because they were concerned about him living in a homeless shelter, she was worried that the Halprins would find out. Mrs. Sternblitz said that she knew the Halprins would be infuriated and probably not ever speak to them again if they knew they were helping Randy. This struck us weirdly because this deep animosity from the Halprins was communicated to their friends, and this was before Randy was convicted for the underlying offense. We thought it strange for the Halprins to feel so strongly against Randy to impress it upon their friends that they were not "allowed" to help him.

Mrs. Sternblitz said that Randy promised them that he was "clean" and had stopped using drugs when he stayed at their house for a few days. It wasn't until after Randy had been in prison a few years that the Sternblitz's found out what happened. Mrs. Sternblitz was very upset. She seemed to feel not only sad, but betrayed because Randy had sworn that he was clean.

We did not speak to Mr. Sternblitz, so we don't know his demeanor. He probably had more personal contact with Randy because he taught him Hebrew lessons on a one – on – one basis. Mrs. Sternblitz will definitely be a helpful mitigation witness. She seems to be a very caring woman that sees Randy as a good person that bad things have happened to. She does hold Randy partially responsible for his actions, specifically the drug use. However, she seems (probably because of her background) very understanding of Randy's unfortunate circumstances that molded his existence.

TOM DODSON

Mr. Dodson lives in the house across the street from where the Halprins lived in Arlington on Oak Trial Court. He remembers when the Halprins adopted Wesley and Randy; they were thrilled.

As far as Mr. Dodson knew Randy was a normal, good kid until he got a little older. Later when Randy started "rebellious," Dodson said that the Halprins "did everything they could. Randy was just rebellious and made his parents' life a living hell." Dodson says that Randy demanded freedom from his parents before he was old enough to legally be on his own. Mr. Halprin would come over seeking advice concerning Randy, wringing his hands. Dodson said he always listened because Mr. Halprin was a "troubled man" that needed someone to talk to about his son.

Dodson is currently still in contact with the Halprins. There seems to be a strikingly similar tone to Dodson and Chief Waybourne's comments, both of whom are still aligned with and regularly talk to the Halprins. We don't think this is a coincidence. The Halprins seem to have strongly influenced those close to them about the "evils" of Randy.

Dodson kept saying that Randy was just bad, "in spite of the most loving parents [Halprins] he had ever seen." He analogized Randy to Wes, saying that Wes has turned his life around and been accepted back in the family. This must have come directly from the Halprins because we don't believe that Dodson is in contact with Wes at all. Ironically, the Halprins never gave Randy the opportunity to "turn his life around." They cut him out of the family before he ever did anything really bad. And it seems that the only thing that separates the outcomes of what happened to Wes and Randy is chance and luck. They were both going down the same path, and Wes admits himself that he was "worse" than Randy. how do you know? never true

Dodson must speak to the Halprins quite regularly because he knew that Wes is in contact with them about once a week by the phone. He knew that Wes has a job, is planning his future, and wants to get a technical education. It appears that the Halprins must be particularly proud of Wesley because they keep Dodson and Chief Waybourne regularly updated on his life.

Dodson, coming from the conservative "pull yourself up by your bootstraps" view, said that if Wesley can turn his life around, it not only shows the goodness of the parents, but also that it is possible. And Randy just didn't want to do it. Dodson said both of the kids started out rebellious, but Wesley wasn't as rebellious as Randy. Yet, Wes himself will volunteer the exact opposite response. → But is he accurate in his assessment?

Dodson also said "you could not depend on Randy to tell the truth. He would lie, lie, lie. His parents gave him everything in the world. They didn't kick him out until they had no choice. Randy made his own decision to associate with bad people. Had had more than one opportunity to change it." This quote from Dodson was repeated, almost verbatim by Chief Waybourne. And Dodson later admitted that he didn't know Randy very well, and got confused as to things that Randy did, as opposed to Wes. So to us, ~~~~ clearly, all of this is Halprin propoganda. This seems to be further corroborated by what Wes told us that his parents have said to him. When Wes asks about – or tries to suggest that the Halprins reconsider their position concerning Randy, he said they reply, "No. Randy has done us wrong. He chose to do what he has done."

sure is judgemental / biased

We asked Dodson if he saw any problem with sending Randy to a strict Baptist school when he was Jewish. He replied that the parents were at their "wits end," and they didn't care what religion the school was so long as it helped. We think this can be translated to – they didn't care how the school affected Randy. They just wanted to be rid of him. Then Dodson defended the Oneida decision by explaining that Mr. Halprin was Jewish, Mrs. Halprin was Catholic, and they were open to all religions. In fact, Dan, (Mr. Halprin) went to Dallas Baptist University for a Masters degree. (Yet this is really not relevant. But it appears as if the Halprins have thought about this question and created a "plausible explanation.") It not the same → goes way beyond the data

Dodson told us a story about taking Randy with him to an antique car show when he was 9 or 10. At that time Randy was causing no behavioral problems. Later, Mr. Dodson called back saying that his wife thought that it wasn't Randy that he took with him. She thought it was Wes that went with him. This man is older – the approximate of what could be Randy's grandfather, so he could just be forgetful. However, this seems to illustrate that he didn't really know much about Randy. Everything he knows is hearsay from the Halprins.

Other things Dodson said seemed to come directly from the Halprins as well. He explained that the Halprins gave Randy everything – a car, several months free rent, extra money, and he lost it all. In contrast, Randy says that they barely gave him enough money to get by. We realize that drugs were probably involved, so it's hard to say if Randy was blowing the money – or the Halprins were really not giving him enough. Yet, in either case, it seems that the Halprins may harbor some guilt about turning their son out because they are now portraying the image of them giving Randy everything, and Randy just using and abusing their generosity. What if that is true?

Finally, there's another bit of information that seems to come from the Halprins because it was also said by Chief Waynourne. Right now, and when Randy was initially getting into trouble, the Halprins MOST IMPORTANT OBJECTIVE was to protect Jimmy and Kevin, the two Korean boys they adopted. It seems to us that the Halprins decided to trade in their first adopted son for "better," "newer models." Jesus

Dodson also remembered Mr. Halprin asking Randy to go over to Dodson's house and recite Hebrew right before his Bar Mitzvah. He said that the Halprins were very proud of Randy. by Ho are OK, not ascert

CHIEF BILL WAYBOURNE

We were very apprehensive before speaking to Chief Waybourne. We just went out to the Police Station and tried to catch him there, hoping he would talk to us. We had to return ~~back~~ to the station after an hour or so and a little hassle, but he did speak to us.

True of all mitigation data

Waybourne was very convincing — he will be a great witness. Unfortunately, as he said himself, he will be able to “put the nail in Randy’s coffin, just as easily as he could say favorable things.” Not the responses we wanted to hear. Clearly he, like Dodson has been indoctrinated by the Halprins. He is currently still regularly in contact with the Halprins, and knows where they are. And believes in the “justice system,” i.e. Randy deserves whatever punishment he receives, which may be the death penalty.

Waybourne is Wesley’s godfather. And Randy told us that he was his role model as a child. Randy aspired to be a police officer when he was young. Waybourne even let Randy ride around and help him out on duty when he was a kid.

Waybourne really put a spin on things that we had not heard before. We were amazed at some of the things he said. Randy told us that he said some awful, untrue things about Randy to the media when this was going on, and Randy was upset and confused by the statements. So we asked Waybourne about them. He replied that he said the things he did to manipulate the media and to protect the Halprins. He asked us to apologize to Randy and explain that he didn’t necessarily mean what he said, he was just protecting Randy’s family.

Waybourne said that the Halprins always felt like there was something “missing” in their relationship with Randy. He described Randy as scarily persuasive and manipulative, and likened him to Ted Bundy because he is so nice and can make anyone like him and then turn around and manipulate them. (Not something that would be good for a jury to hear.) He continued by saying when Randy asked you "how you were doing," he was asking the question to figure out what you could do for him – asking only as a manipulation devise. He contrasted that with Wesley (the wonder child – evidently) who sincerely wanted to know how you were doing when he asked.

Waybourne kept stressing that Randy's good looks and charm gets him far with the ladies, stressing that he can swoon women. We aren't sure if this guy was just saying this to us because we are two young women, or he really thinks this is important. He also kept calling Randy a "con artist." He said that Randy was a natural manipulator, and the Halprins gave him the class he needed to smooth out the "rough edges" to making him a great con artist.

We asked him if he thought the Halprins would testify. He said "no." They are horrified. They wouldn't testify in the injury to the child case. And right now all they want to do is protect their younger sons. Evidently there's not equally-distributed unconditional love^{no such thing} in the Halprin household. We told Waybourne that we have a reason to believe that Randy may not have caused to injury to that child. Waybourne – as if he had personal knowledge – said he had heard that Randy tried to convince people of that before, but there was proof he did it. It's as if the Halprins and Waybourne want to believe that Randy is this awful criminal monster. ^{as if you are closed to it} We didn't pry any further with that, although we know some classmates have a strong case^{come on} that Randy didn't cause the injuries to that child.

Waybourne also said that the Halprins kept doing things for Randy, trying to help him until he "hurt that child." But that is not what Wes told us. Wes said that the need multiple sources

Halprins completely cut Randy out of the family way before the injury to a child offense ever came up.

Waybourne kept stressing that the two younger boys are the “picture of perfection.” This made my stomach turn. It really does seem that the Halprins weren’t happy with their first crop of sons, so they traded them in for two new ones. He also said that the Halprins will protect the younger boys “at all cost,” which we translated as even at the cost of Randy’s life.

Waybourne said that he heard through gossip that Randy had a drug problem. He wasn’t sure, but the thought he was using Crystal Meth, Acid, and Weed. We don’t have a confirmation that Randy used Crystal/ Speed, but if this is confirmed, it could lead to a genetic predisposition argument, perhaps. Both Wesley and Annie, their biological mother were speed addicts. Attached is some basic information about the drugs we distributed in our class presentation. There is some evidence that some people are more predisposed to be abusers of certain drugs, so this might be a potential avenue that could be explored with an expert. We asked Wes if he knew if Randy took speed. Wes had a strong inclination that Randy probably did because one of Randy’s close friends at Oneida was heavily using it, but Wes never actually saw Randy use speed. Randy did admit to using Acid and Weed.

Like Dodson, Waybourne focused on the analogy between Randy and Wesley. Wesley “turned his life around.” We suggested that the severe abuse Randy suffered in his first years of life may have contributed to the difference between Randy and Wesley. Waybourne did not want to hear this, but reluctantly he admitted that it “may” have had an effect on Randy. Yet he still thinks the responsibility for Randy's actions rests on Randy. His past abuse is not an "excuse."

Dodson also shared with us that Dan Halprin is in very bad health currently. And of course, he attributed it to Randy. He was vague, but Mr. Halprin has some type of heart problem. And he said if he (Mr. Halprin) had to testify for Randy tomorrow (because he was subpoenaed of course) he wouldn't be able to because of his health. We are unsure how to translate this. Perhaps this means he is in the hospital? But Waybourne was quite overly dramatic, so he could be just exaggerating.

Currently Wes is completing his community service (presumably for parole requirements) at the police station with Waybourne.

Waybourne mentioned that Randy wanted to be homeless. So his mother did research and found out that Seattle had the best shelters and facilities. We mention this because it makes something Randy told us make sense. Randy told us that had the escape been successful, he was planning on moving to Seattle. When we asked him why, he said he didn't know, he just thought that would be a cool place to live.

On top of describing Randy as a con artist and a manipulator, Waybourne also described him as a follower. This peaked our interest because according to Randy, he and Rivas were the leaders of the Texas Seven. Waybourne said no – Randy was definitely a follower.

Now the kicker. Waybourne then said that he hears a lot of rumors because he is in law enforcement – so they hear things from prisons all over. It is rumored that Rivas and Randy had a sexual relationship. (I had tossed this idea out previously with no evidence to corroborate it.)

The way Randy describes the roles of the other member of the Texas Seven and then himself didn't make sense. Every other member had a specific trade or purpose that helped the group. Yet when we asked Randy what his purpose was, he said he was just Rivas's confidant. Rivas trusted him, and he would help Rivas make the decisions with respect to logistics and who would be allowed to join them.

If Waybourne is at all correct about Randy's selfish, manipulative mind, this story makes sense. Randy may have made the decision to be Rivas's "friend," rather than be abused by someone else because he could gain something out of the relationship – potentially his freedom.

We don't know that this can ever been verified. We thought of attempting to interview Rivas, since he has been adjudicated, but then realized that there are appeals pending, so his attorney probably wouldn't want us speaking to him. But even if we could speak to Rivas, we doubt that he or Randy would EVER admit to this. If this could be corroborated, it could lead to perhaps a necessity/ duress defense.

MISCELLANEOUS INFORMATION

Randy told us that he loves to play the piano, and he played for a Spanish Christian Ministry group while in the Connolly Unit. Perhaps you could get in touch with the music director there. He took piano lessons when he was a kid, but could not clearly remember the woman's name. Randy thought her name was Ms. Pedigree or Pedigrue, but we didn't find anyone in Arlington by those names. Wes didn't remember either, but he thought the name was completely different, like "Feld."

With respect to Randy's religion, we found some information in the packet from the students who researched the "Oncida Years" last semester that Randy may have at least been conflicted about his faith. He signed the letter to the Dean, asking for re-admission, "in Christ." And we also found a letter by the Minister at Oneida saying that Randy was "saved" in the name of Jesus. Randy now says that he considers himself Jewish. This information may prove either his tendency to do whatever he needs to do to fit in – i.e. pretend that he has accepted Jesus. It could also just be an indicator of how conflicted he was while at Oneida.

More like!

CONCLUSION

In Conclusion, we think there is some relevant information that could help Randy's mitigation. We get a strong sense that the Halprins are not nice people, and that they never wanted Randy. A lot of Randy's problems we think can be linked to the void of acceptance he felt in his life.

The Sternblitzs' will likely be very helpful mitigation witnesses. And Wes loves Randy's soul and will do "anything to help [his] brother."

This is fact.

While Randy is reluctant to admit any credence to any of these theories – we think this is also caused by his problems that step from his early abuse and then subsequent rejection by the Halprins.

Drug Use & Genetic Predisposition

Randy likely was a Speed user, along with LSD and Weed.

Randy's biological mother, as well as his biological brother, Wesley, were Speed addicts. So, there is an argument for genetic predisposition for abusing this substance.

There are several forms of speed including:

Amphetamines - Stimulants

Methamphetamine

Methamphetamine (meth) is a synthetic drug manufactured in clandestine labs, and is categorized as a central nervous system stimulant. It is known as "speed" or "crystal" when it is swallowed or sniffed; as "crank" when it is injected; and as "ice" when it is smoked. All forms are extremely dangerous and induce long-lasting, debilitating effects.

Physical effects

- increased blood pressure
- increased pulse/heart beat
- increased respiration
- sweating
- dry mouth

Psychological effects

- mental confusion
- severe anxiety
- paranoia
- potential for violent behavior
- depression

Amphetamines excites the central nervous system and produce euphoria, hypersensitivity, insomnia and appetite depression. They relieve fatigue and induce feelings of power. The aftermath of their use is the crash caused by the central nervous system's exhaustion. Panic, paranoia, nervousness and increased appetite are the after effects. The higher the high, the lower the low, and users must use more of the drugs each time to achieve the original high. Chronic users suffer from devastating side effects including increased aggression and fear, hallucinations, seizures, convulsions and cardiovascular collapse. Physical exercise is also dangerous if a person is abusing amphetamines because of the increased exertion on the heart.

The amphetamines ("speed") were first prescribed as appetite suppressants; it took several years before it was discovered that their repeated use leads to serious dependence and emotional disorders. Abuse has been documented among truck drivers and other individuals who must often work during prolonged periods. Though the use of speed-type drugs do not lead to physical dependency, it can lead to psychological dependency and severe depression upon cessation of use.

Ice

Ice is a synthetic derivative of crystal methamphetamine, very similar to the pep pill and speed that were popular in the 1970s and 80s. Ice is different from past forms of amphetamines because it is about 90% pure. Also, the crystals are smoked, not made into pills. This greatly increases the strength of the drug as well as its danger. The use of the drug has become an epidemic on the islands of Hawaii where supplies come in from Taiwan, Hong Kong, Thailand and Korea. Almost every major U.S. city has seen some use of the drug. Users of ice experience a happy and wake feeling before the drugs toxic effects build and cause long term damage. The long term use of ice causes alterations in brain chemistry that can result in delusion and paranoid schizophrenia. Ice and amphetamines are stimulant drugs that act on the brain and nervous system to increase alertness and physical activity. The use of amphetamines can cause irregular heart beat, high blood pressure and strokes. The affects of amphetamines overdose are unpredictable as each user will react differently. Overdose results in paralysis of the respiratory muscles and convulsions.

"Ice" is a crystal form of a methamphetamine that can be smoked. The availability of a smokeable form increases the risk of abuse because it is delivered to the brain so rapidly and efficiently. MDMA, methylenedioxymethamphetamine, ("Ecstasy") is another amphetamine derivative.

Major functional effects

- euphoria
- insomnia
- wild imagination
- hallucinations
- paranoia
- irritability and aggressivity

The National Association of Children of Alcoholics has reported 76 million Americans, about 43% of the U.S. adult population, have been exposed to alcoholism in the family. Almost one in five adult Americans (18%) lived with an alcoholic while growing up. There are an estimated 26.8 million children of alcoholics in the United States. Preliminary research suggests that over 11 million of these children are under the age of 18.

Compared to children of non-alcoholics:

They are more at risk for alcoholism and other drug abuse.

They are more likely to marry into families in which alcoholism is prevalent.

Chad Jones Birmingham, Alabama	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Randy's junior high friend

Thirteen to 25% of children of alcoholics are likely to become alcoholics.

We also recognize clinically, that as adults, they experience a subset of behaviors related to shame based beliefs that create depression, victimization, rage, and a lack of meaning in their lives. While children from difficult environments often show much resiliency, for many, it is at a very high price.

Major functional effects

- euphoria
- insomnia
- wild imagination
- hallucinations
- paranoia
- irritability and aggressivity

Hallucinogens

LSD, STP, MDA, DMT, psilocybin, mescaline, phencyclidine, etc.)

There are a great number of hallucinogenic drugs. These are substances that neither stimulate nor depress the central nervous system; rather, they greatly modify neurochemical activity in the brain such that the user experiences marked sensory distortion, particularly in the perception of time and space. The repeated use of hallucinogens leads to psychological dependency, but not to physical dependency. Tolerance is very high, so the user must stop taking the drug for a period of time before again experiencing its effects. Hallucinogens generally cost little to buy on the street. One danger they represent in industry is that the user may experience a severe type of flashback, which is unpredictable and may include visual and auditory hallucinations.

Major functional effects

- severely distorted perception of time and space
- bizarre ideation
- depression and possible suicidal gestures
- severely impaired memory

Because of Randy's severely abusive background and inability to mesh within his adoptive family, it is likely he sought emotional and psychological relief from speed and hallucinogenic drugs. We think that it is no coincidence that these are the same drugs that his biological mother and brother abused, after experiencing that same physical abuse in the biological household.

Re: Randy Brian Halprin

Dear Judge Wilson:

Pursuant to your order of January 15, 1997, I have this date completed a psychiatric evaluation of the above named defendant for competency to stand trial. This evaluation took place at the Tarrant County Jail on January 17, 1997. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] The defendant was informed that he did not have to talk to me and that our conversation was not privileged.

Based on my evaluation it is my opinion that

1. The defendant has a factual as well as a rational understanding of the charge against him, and
2. The defendant has sufficient present ability to consult with his attorney with a reasonable degree of rational understanding.

Mr. Halprin was brought to the examining area at the appointed time. He was neat, clean and cooperative. There were no tics, tremors, unusual movements nor mannerisms. Mr. Halprin answered all questions readily. He knew his charge and the details surrounding his arrest.

Mr. Halprin was born in McKinney, Texas, but was removed from the home of his biological parents who abused him and his brother. They were adopted by a family in Arlington, Texas, who also adopted two young Koreans.

Mr. Halprin dropped out of school in the 11th grade and has worked at various fast food

He has never been in a mental hospital nor clinic, but he stated that he [REDACTED]

Mr. Halpin stated that he has been arrested once before this current charge for credit card abuse. He stated that he received two years probation for this charge. He stated that he has used marijuana and LSD. He has been in good general health.

The mental status examination revealed Mr. Halpin to be a pleasant, cooperative young man who made good eye contact and was aware of his surroundings. His [REDACTED] and his affect was appropriate to his mood. His thought production was logical and goal-directed. There was no evidence of any thought disorder. His memory appeared to be fair. He was of average intelligence. He did very well on the Proverbs and Similarities Tests. He could perform basic math [REDACTED] easily and accurately. [REDACTED] His general fund of information was good. He was oriented to time, place, person and circumstances.

I think the [REDACTED] that he has, at least on occasion [REDACTED]. Couple this with poor judgement and a tremendous problem arises. One must consider temporary insanity, but I believe that poor judgement and poor impulse control is the more likely causative factor [REDACTED]. Other [REDACTED] than the obvious anger produced by the abuse. I don't know why this is true. (I don't know anyone who knows why it is true, either.)

5. The plea bargain recommendation is: 30 yrs TMDAT + DW finding No contact with injured party as condition of parole.

6. Plea Bargaining: A plea bargain or recommendation of punishment is not binding on the Court. The Court may set punishment anywhere within the range provided by law for this offense. If there is a plea bargain agreement, the Court will inform you in open Court whether the agreement will be followed before making any finding on your plea. Should the Court reject the agreement, you will be permitted to withdraw your plea should you desire. Recommendations concerning conditions of community supervision are not binding on the Court.

7. Permission to Appeal: When the Court follows a plea bargain agreement, permission of the Court must be given before you can prosecute an appeal on any matter in the case, except for matters raised by written motion filed prior to trial. This Court seldom consents to an appeal where conviction is based upon a Guilty Plea. Where there is no plea bargain agreement, any appeal of your conviction upon a plea of nolo contendere or plea of guilty is limited to jurisdictional issues only.

8. Citizenship: If you are not a citizen of the United States of America, a plea of guilty or nolo contendere for this offense may result in deportation, the exclusion from admission to this country, or the denial of naturalization under federal law.

9. Deferred Adjudication: Should the Court defer adjudicating your guilt and place you on probation, upon violation of any imposed condition, you may be arrested and detained as provided by the law. You will then be entitled to a hearing limited to the determination by the Court, without a jury, whether to proceed with an adjudication of your guilt upon the original charge. No appeal may be taken from this determination. Upon adjudication of your guilt, the Court may assess your punishment anywhere within the range provided by law for this offense.

After adjudication of guilt, all proceedings including assessment of punishment, pronouncement of sentence, granting of probation and your right to appeal continue as if adjudication of guilt had not been deferred.

10. Probation: If the Court grants you straight probation as opposed to deferred adjudication, upon violation of any imposed condition, you may be arrested and detained as provided by law. You will then be entitled to a hearing limited to the determination by the court, without a jury, whether to revoke your probation and sentence you to imprisonment in the Institutional Division of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice for a period of time not to exceed that originally assessed by the Court at the time you were found guilty.

11. Parole: Neither the Court nor your attorney make any promises or representations about the amount of actual time you will serve on a sentence of incarceration in the Institutional Division of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice.

Neither the Court nor your attorney make any representation about the disposition of any parole revocation hearings.

12. If no indictment has been returned by a Grand Jury charging you with this offense, you do not have to stand trial until such an indictment has been returned, and you then will be given ample time (at least 10 days) to consult with your attorney before trial.

13. If a victim impact statement has been returned to the prosecutor under Art. 26.13 C.C.P., the Judge has reviewed a copy of that report.

Admonishments given this defendant on the above noted date.

State's Exhibit 0

(handwritten note, attached hereto)

Dr. Kelly R. Goodness

June 16, 2005 Clinical and Forensic Psychologist

Dear Bubba,

Capital death case work is hard, hard work with all too little recognition.
Thus, I wanted to be sure to let you know how impressed I was with you and George on the Halprin case. Your skill, dedication to your work, and your legal acumen was ~~apparent~~^{apparent} as I watched you work in the courtroom.
If only all lawyers

had your traits ...

I hope you take time to rest as this work is draining.

Warm Regards,

Jeff Goodness, Ph.D.
